Povzetek: Poznavanje identitete lastne dežele je pomemben faktor pri zagotavljanju uspeha ustvarjalnih pobud in procesov na vseh področjih življenja od politike, preko družbe do ekonomije. Avtor se tokrat omeji na nekaj potencialov Slovenije, ki se jih da prebrati in ovrednotiti glede na zemljepisno lego Slovenije, njene geološke in naravne danosti. Opredeljuje pomen Slovenije kot mosta med srednjo Evropo in Balkanom, nadalje kot deželo sprave med različnimi nasprotji, glede na to, da se na ozemlju dežele med sabo križajo mnoge nasprotujoče si silnice narodov Evrope. Opozarja na izrazito podzemlje Slovenije kot možnost povezave z vzročnimi arhetipi razvoja, ki določajo razvojne poti Evropske kulture. Nič manj pomembno ni dejstvo, da je večina slovenskega ozemlja gozdne narave, kar pomeni potencialno bližino silam in inspiracijam narave.

Ključne besede: potenciali slovenskega prostora, most do prvinskih sil Balkana, podzemlje, sprava, moč narave.

IDENTITY OF SLOVENIA AS A HIDDEN POTENTIAL

Abstract: Knowing the identity of one's own country is an important issue to guarantee the success of creative initiatives and processes related to all fields of life from politics, across society to economy. This time the author focuses upon some potentials of Slovenia that can be verified according to the geographical position of Slovenia and its geological and natural framework.

Key words: potentials of Slovenia, bridge to the primeval powers of Balkan, underground, reconciliation, power of nature.

Introduction

For the rational mind the question of identity may have only a symbolic meaning, not connected to the practical issues of political or economic development. This attitude changes radically if potentials of a given country start to be perceived from the standpoint of integral economy. Imagine a human being to be successful in his/her endeavors without knowing who she or he is and what his or her skills are.

To be practical we need to find out which are the possible potentials inherited within Slovenia's identity. Some of them can be identified by taking in account its geographical position.

Holding connection to the belly of Europe

According to its position Slovenia is capable to connect the region of Balkans with the area of the Central Europe. Balkans can be associated with the belly of Europe which means, that it concentrates the primeval powers of the Earth capable to give vitality and emotional upsurge to creative projects. The Central Europe on contrary stands for the treasury of cultural memory and for the logical methods of thinking and planning. If these two poles are not united, the emotional power is missing on one side and the capacity to proceed in a logical way on the other. One of the potentials of Slovenia is to embody the synergy between both polarities.

Place of reconciliation between the opposites

Slovenia is the only place in Europe where the three large families and language groups that constitute the European culture meet, the Romanic, Germanic and Slavic. Translated into a correspondent quality it means that Slovenia inherits the capacity to interconnect different elements belonging to the greater hole – also in the sense of holding balance between the opposing forces. This position can be compared with the Greek idea of an “omphalos” meaning in this case the point where different or even opposing powers find their point of mutual balance. Balance between the opposites means peace and with this optimal condition for creative purposes.

Connecting the underground regions with the culture at its surface

Slovenia is known worldwide for her numerous caves and extensive underground spaces distributed throughout the whole country except in its very east. The strong relationship to the underground space means that Slovenia is a country that holds open interdimensional portals leading to the realms of the causal world. With the term of the causal world those realms of the human consciousness (and the Earth’s noosphere) are meant, where the archetypes of human evolution are stored that fuel the further development of humanity. If Slovenia has a strong connection to the realm of the archetypes it means that it is a land open to inspiration and to the universal library of the Earth memory – which is a great potential to support human creativity.

Slovenia holds upright a strong link with nature

Slovenia is one of the rare countries in Europe of which greatest part is covered with woods. Trees present the channels of breath running constantly between the core of the Earth and the core of our home star, the Sun. Being a place of intense exchange between the planetary powers of the Earth and the cosmic powers of the Sun means that Slovenia is not only a healthy place to live, but also a region with a strong bio-energetic field that is capable to support any form of development in the field of culture or civilization under the condition that is in tune with the essence of life and follows the will to create in an integral way.
