

Milojka Fekonja, PhD

Graduated as PhD in Agronomy at the University of Maribor (2010). Since 2004 working in organic agriculture. Last five years working also in rural development and the rural tourism recently mostly on the program of small farms. She is employed as a specialist of organic agriculture at the Rural Development Agency Slovenske gorice and as a project manager at the cooperative Dobrina. She is author or co-author of scientific and professional articles, catalogues and publications in the field of organic farming, vegetable production, rural development and tourism in Slovenia.