

Dr. Robert G. Dyck, Ph.D., Emeritus Professor of Public and International Affairs, Virginia Tech, Blacksburg, Virginia, USA.

Dr. Robert G. Dyck is Emeritus Professor of Public and International Affairs at Virginia Tech. His career and publications have focused on the problems of disenfranchisement and poverty in America and throughout the world. In recent years he has centered his attention on alternatives to market-based economics, based on a collaborative conception of economic rationality combined with fractal geometries, systems approaches, and increased levels of social responsibility. His objective is to achieve socioeconomic sustainability through democracy, economic equity, and social justice, within the limits of sustainable global energy and resources throughput. He may be contacted at: 5428 Crossings Lake Circle, Birmingham, AL 35242 USA or, by email, at bobdyck@vt.edu.
