

Martina Gopurn

B.S at the Faculty of Natural Sciences and Mathematics at University of Maribor. Holder of professional licence in the field of education. Worked as a professor of chemistry and production-technical education. She is co-creating and managing projects in the field of sustainable development, education and social entrepreneurship. Lately she is enthusiastic about working on local projects that have tangible results with environmental and social impact. She loves educating children through experience learning and is a dedicated researcher integrating sustainable development into education activities. She is employed at Institute of sustainable development and holistic solutions where she holds the position of Executive Project Manager.