

Vesna Lešnik Štefotič, MSc

Graduated as MSc in Computer Science and Informatics at the University in Maribor in year 2000. Since 2001 she was working as an independent consultant on national and international projects linked with informatics, distance learning and social responsibility. She is a lecturer of informatics related subjects at DOBA Faculty. In years 2011 – 2012 she was part of SOCIRES project, where training and certification schema for the social responsibility area, called Social Responsibility Manager, was developed. She is an author or a co-author of different scientific and professional articles, study and workshop materials on topics related to information technology, distance learning and social responsibility