

GoinGreenGlobal, in the category of educational and research institutions, awarded for an important contribution in the field of research, education, counselling, networking and promotion of social responsibility in Slovenia and worldwide:

IRDO - Institute for the Development of Social Responsibility

Institute for the Development of Social Responsibility – IRDO strives to research and promote the development of social responsibility both in Slovenia and around the world. In its seventeen years of operation, the institute has carried out numerous activities and campaigns to raise awareness of the society about the importance of social responsibility in Slovenia. Thus, by connecting many important actors the institute has been promoting socially responsible action in practice.

The IRDO Institute is a national partner of the European Business Network for Corporate Social Sustainability and Responsibility - CSR Europe. Since 2009, it has been awarding the Slovenian Horus Award for Social Responsibility, which is part of the national awareness strategy for greater social responsibility, with the purpose to promote integrity in thinking, innovation in operations and responsibility in business of Slovenian organizations.

With a clear vision to become a recognized centre of experts, scientists and researchers by 2030, significantly contributing to the development of European companies, organizations, institutions, individuals and governments, IRDO institute will make an important contribution to the development of social responsibility in the society also on a global scale.